A MODEL HUSBAND.

First Installment of Letters on this Interesting Question by Ladies Competing for the $10 in Gold Prize Offered by The Columbia Herald.

One Who Practices the Golden Rule.
One, who never complains under any circumstances, but is, at all times, pleasant and agreeable. Energetic in business, unswerving in duty. Tender and patient, noble, charitable, and of a forgiving nature. One who thoroughly practices the Golden Rule.

MADE.

Gentleman and Christian.
EDITOR COLUMBIA HERALD:—I will endeavor to tell what I think makes a Model Husband. It takes a "Gentleman" and a "Christian." One who loves his parents and respects their company after his day is finished in preference to hanging around the corner of a saloon or the houses of the city or town. One who does not drink and swear and stay out at night. One who has a word and smiles for every one. One who is kind to animals as well as man. One who does not kick the others over and fuss when his little sister or brother cries and keeps a racket. He must stop and think what he is once himself. If he can not do this he cannot make a Model Husband, for if he should marry and have children he would not know what to do when the baby was sick and fretful. He would storm at the poor tired wife and say he wished he had never married; but if he is a model husband he will be patient and try to quiet his little babe while his mother is trying to make home cheerful as a home should be. When the baby is asleep they will have a nice quiet evening and not fuss about anything. He will give her a word and cause her to shed tears. He will always meet her with a smile and kind words. Not that he is taking it to make a Model Husband. Yours, POLLY ANN.

Must be Gentle, Kind and True.
EDITOR COLUMBIA HERALD:—Permit me to tell you what I think makes a Model Husband. To begin with, he must be a man of good common sense. One who tries to make his home comfortable and his family happy. He will not go into debt for what he is not able to pay. One who will not mortgage his home nor go beyond the reach of his pocket book just to keep up appearances. He will have things look as fine as his neighbors. One when his day's work is finished enjoys being with his family instead of sitting around a saloon. He will be a man of a few words and his words will be a smile and a kiss for his wife, who has been at home all day and trying to see the outside world and trying to have every thing ready to receive him. He should not use bad language at home nor abroad, and be willing to help those who are old and not be ashamed of his parents because they have to work and he can live without it, but wherever he meets them always be proud to see them and be thankful they are spared to enjoy old age. One who does not try to get into his wife's affairs but sticks to his own business and lets her do the same. A man when his wife does the best she can to please him will be satisfied and not tell her that Mr. Dewie's wife can do such and such a thing much better and then not half try. He must appreciate what his wife does, and if not perfect, will say, "Well my dear, you have done the best you could and it suits me." A man when asked to get a pair of water or a little coal will not tell his wife to get it herself, but rather that is what he married her for. A man, when asked to do a little turn around the house when it is cold or raining and he has time to spare, will, instead of looking at her and complaining that she is so slow or too lazy to move and that it was a seven day's wonder that she ever gets through. He should be glad to know he could be of any service and be able to help his wife, but above all he should serve his Master and do by all as he would wish to be done by.

A Model Husband won't rage.

Ladies try and find him.

And you will find him.

TIPPY WITCH.

EDITOR COLUMBIA HERALD:—We take pleasure in filling the blank and in trying to help the Herald along. I think everybody ought to take an interest in making the Herald interesting. I have had many letters from you, but I will inform the gentlemen what is expected of them as husbands and express my views of what a "Model Husband" is. A husband is to be loved for aid and protection; a kind and loving husband, one who fulfills his duties, is a source of pleasure and happiness to any woman's heart; but the man who is rude and harsh, I do not think he is worthy of a wife. Young men, before choosing your wife think of the over all in your mind; do not rush into married life so soon, but enjoy your boyhood grace and beauty. When you have become a full grown man then it is time to look out for a full blown rose. Think out if her temper and yours are certain to agree well together, and before you put your hand to hers tell her that you will be willing to fight out the battle of life together. Think it all over well and remember that you are choosing your sweet heart not for a day or a year but all through life, and then it is according to the way you walk whether your life be spent in happiness or sorrow. If you are honest and upright and please God, your pathway may be strewn with beautiful flowers and sunshine, and if you falter your rose may bend her head in darkness and sadness all the days of her life.

A husband must be attentive to his family and household duties if he home, and by this he can have his bosom full of joy and love, and if he toiled in the field all day he can come home at night and the smiling face of his wife and four kisses can afford him more happiness and pleasure than anything else on earth.

I am married, I am of eight months; have experienced married life and I take pleasure in writing to all who read the Herald and will bring this communication to a close for fear the Editor's patience will be weary of my chatter and I will stop and rhetoric that he will consign it to the flames. HAPPY HOURS.

Something for Nothing.

For $1, paid in advance, we will send this Herald to any address in this country for one year, and GIVE THE MONEY BACK at the expiration of the year, if the subscriber has not already saved MORE than that amount by using some of the coupons that accompany every copy, and which cost nothing. Popularity is one of the hottest forces any man can be thrown into.

In Cheatham's Tastes Chilli Tonic will be found a sweet without its bitter. Pleasant to the taste, without a parallel, as a remedy for chills and fever, it is the production of the well known A. B. Richards Medical Co. of Sherman, Texas, and is guaranteed to cure. For sale by all druggists. mar-1m.

The great difficulty about common sense is that it is so tremendously scarce that it is not common.

Away with the bitter, nauseating, nasty, sweet-tasting chills tonic. Use Cheatham's Tastes Chilli Tonic, as pleasant to the taste, without a parallel, as a remedy for chills and fever, it is the production of the well known A. B. Richards Medical Co. of Sherman, Texas, and is guaranteed to cure. For sale by all druggists. mar-1m.

"How delightfully you write about children. You must be a father."

"No, I am a 'bachelor.'"—Yankee Blade.

Quinine impairs the hearing, destroys the nerves and injures the digestion. Cheatham's Tastes Chilli Tonic is pleasant to the taste, without a parallel, as a remedy for chills and fever, it is the production of the well known A. B. She—I am sure you would make somebody happy if you should get married.

He (angrily)—And who—who would be so foolish as to marry me?

She—The minister. You are so generous in money matters.—Epoch.

Priest—Well, Dennis, you're married, I hear. I'm very glad of it. How do you and your wife get along together?

Dennis—Well, your reverence, I think we get along pretty well together when we're apart.—Boston Courier.

"How pleased that lady looks! She seems perfectly happy." "Yes; she must either have found pure religion in her own heart or the seeds of sin in the heart of one of her neighbors."—Boston Transcript.

Giles—I noticed that your friend had his coat collar buttoned up. A moral, I suppose.

Morrill—Oh, no. He was calling on his girl and wore the tie she made him for Christmas.—Life.

Teacher—Tommy, to what race do the people of this country belong?

Tommy (with a prodigious effort of the memory)—To the Caucasian race, ma'am.—Chicago Tribune.

"Wasn't it dreadful to listen to the whistling of the bullets in battle?" "Oh, not so very. You see the bullets never whistled any of the popular airs of the day."—New York Sun.

Wingfield—I hear that Tom Lyric published a volume of poems the other day and that they have had a great sale?

Boothby—Yes. His relatives clubbed together and bought up the whole edition.—Chicago Times.
